

Leading Israeli NGOs to Address Settlements at United Nations

United Nations, October 14 (RHC)-- Two leading Israeli rights organizations are speaking out against the regime's illegal settlement construction in the occupied Palestinian territories at a UN Security Council meeting.

The informal session takes place at the UN headquarters in New York at the request of Angola, Malaysia, Venezuela, Senegal and Egypt, The Times of Israel reported. During the session, the Palestinians will revive their efforts to persuade the world body to issue a resolution against the Israeli regime's land grab in the occupied territories.

Previously, they tried and failed to have the 15-nation UN council pass such resolution in 2011.

The Security Council session is to be addressed by B'Tselem, the Israel Information Center for Human Rights in the Occupied Territories, and Americans for Peace Now. The daily said B'Tselem planned to call on the Security Council to take action against settlement activities.

B'Tselem said: "The responsibility for ending the occupation and the human rights violations that it entails lies first and foremost with Israel, yet this reality will not change as long as the international community stands idly by."

Instead of Peace Now, it was later decided that the affiliated Americans for Peace Now will represent the NGO at the session. "We are extremely proud that Americans for Peace Now has been invited to address the Security Council on the issue of Israeli settlement policies," scheduled speaker Lara Friedman said.

Israeli Ambassador to the UN Danny Danon reacted harshly to the scheduled speeches, saying that it is "sad and disappointing that Israeli organizations are providing moral cover for anti-Israel activities at the UN."

Palestinian Ambassador Riyad Mansour said he was sounding out council members on a new resolution demanding a halt to Israeli settlement building and on prospects for Palestine's becoming a full member of the United Nations.

The Israeli anti-settlement group Peace Now reported earlier this month that the construction of illegal Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank has increased by four times since September 2015. The pacifist group said plans to construct 2,168 new housing units moved forward over the last Jewish year, compared to 553 ones the year before.
