

U.S.-Led Coalition in Iraq Killing Far More Civilians Than Acknowledged

New York, November 21 (RHC)-- An 18-month-long investigation by The New York Times has revealed the U.S.-led military coalition is killing far more civilians in Iraq than it has acknowledged.

The Pentagon claims its air war against the self-proclaimed Islamic State has killed just 89 civilians. But an on-the-ground investigation by reporters Azmat Khan and Anand Gopal found the actual civilian death toll may be 31 times higher than the U.S. is admitting.

According to the report: "In terms of civilian deaths, this may be the least transparent war in recent American history."

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/147981-us-led-coalition-in-iraq-killing-far-more-civilians-than-acknowledged>

Radio Habana Cuba