

Activists in Miami Rally Against U.S. Blockade of Cuba

Miami, September 7 (RHC)- Participants in a solidarity with Cuba event, held Sunday in Miami, condemned the U.S. blockade policy towards Cuba.

The event was called by the organizations making up the Martí Alliance. During the solidarity action, participants also demanded an end to other anti-Cuba measures adopted by subsequent U.S. administrations over the past five decades and which still remain in place, even as bilateral diplomatic relations have now been reestablished between the two countries.

Speakers at the event referred to the new avenues opened by Presidents Barack Obama and Raúl Castro toward fully normalized relations between Washington and Havana and called to clear the common path of old, obsolete obstacles.

Speakers at Sunday's solidarity event included Elena Freyre, President of Foundation for Normalization of Relations between the United States and Cuba (Fornorm), Max Lesnik, director of Radio Miami, leaders of Martí Alliance Association and Andrés Gómez, National Coordinator of Antonio Maceo Brigade.
