

WikiLeaks Shows How Hillary Clinton's Aides Handled E-mail Server Scandal

Washington, October 27 (RHC)-- WikiLeaks is continuing to release more e-mails hacked from the account of Hillary Clinton's campaign chair, John Podesta.

One newly-revealed e-mail shows how Clinton's aides privately handled the controversy around her use of a private e-mail server while secretary of state.

When U.S. President Barack Obama was first questioned about the scandal last year, he replied that he learned of her private e-mail server through news reports. -Shortly after Obama made the comment, a top Clinton aide privately wrote to Podesta: "We need to clean this up -- he has emails from her -- they do not say state.gov."

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/110206-wikileaks-shows-how-hillary-clintons-aides-handled-e-mail-server-scandal>

Radio Habana Cuba