

Further U.S. Collaboration on Cuban National Aquarium

Florida, January 7 (RHC-Agencies)-- The Florida Aquarium's joint research with the National Aquarium of Cuba on coral reef restoration ended on a scientific high in 2016.

Heading into 2017, the Tampa- and Havana-based facilities look to build upon this relationship — the first ever between aquariums from the two neighboring nations — by designing a coral greenhouse and building a coral nursery, both to be located in Cuba.
