

Universities of Mexico and Cuba Sign Cooperation Agreement

Havana, January 22 (RHC)— The Universities of Havana and the Mexican state of Campeche signed an agreement Tuesday to promote joint academic and research projects, Prensa Latina reported.

During the signing ceremony at the Mexican higher studies institution, the Campeche state governor lauded the deal as a major development and recalled the ever existing ties of friendship, solidarity and cooperation between the two Latin American countries.

The document endorsed by the two schools also provides a mechanism for specialists and graduate students to conduct research, conferences and studies in both universities.
