

Israeli prosecutor's office directly links Prime Minister Netanyahu to Bezeq bribery case

Tel Aviv, March 5 (RHC)-- A major development in one of the multiple corruption investigations against Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has been announced.

The newspaper Haaretz is reporting the State Prosecutor's Office has for the first time directly linked Netanyahu to the bribery scandal involving communications giant Bezeq Group, aimed at securing more favorable media coverage for Netanyahu and his family.

A number of members of Netanyahu's inner circle have already been arrested.
