

Bernie Sanders says Israel should not take U.S. money for banning congresswomen

Washington, August 19 (RHC)-- U.S. Senator and Democratic presidential candidate Bernie Sanders has suggested that Israel should decline U.S. foreign aid for denying the entry of two Muslim Congresswomen Ilhan Omar and Rashida Tlaib.

“The idea that a member of the United States Congress cannot visit a nation which, by the way, we support to the tune of billions and billions of dollars, is clearly an outrage,” Sanders said in an interview with MSNBC. “And if Israel doesn’t want members of the United States Congress to visit their country to get a first-hand look at what’s going on — and I’ve been there many, many times — but if he doesn’t want members to visit, maybe he can respectfully decline the billions of dollars that we give to Israel,” he added.

Israel announced that it would prevent a visit by Tlaib and Omar, both Democratic members of the U.S. House of Representatives, over their criticism of Israel. The decision by Israel appears to be an unprecedented move against American members of Congress. Even AIPAC, a pro-Israel lobbying group in Washington, criticized Israel for barring the pair from traveling there.

Sanders also appeared to blame Israel's decision on U.S. President Donald Trump, who encouraged Israel to bar Omar and Tlaib, two outspoken critics of Israel's treatment of the Palestinians and support a boycott of Israel.

This is not the first time that Sanders has suggested using U.S. financial and military aid to pressure Israel. He has repeatedly criticized Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and has advocated for Palestinian rights.

Trump has boosted U.S. ties with Israel since his election and Netanyahu has hailed him as a "great friend to the Jewish people." Washington's military aid to Israel has skyrocketed over the past several years while the regime's forces are engaged in blatant human rights violations against Palestinians in Gaza and elsewhere.

The United States and Israel signed an agreement in September 2016 to give Israel $38 billion in military assistance over the next decade, the largest such aid package in US history.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/199355-bernie-sanders-says-israel-should-not-take-us-money-for-banning-congresswomen>

Radio Habana Cuba