In welcoming the participants, Malmierca stressed that this year's fair takes place in the context of the celebrations for the 500th anniversary of the foundation of Havana. He also underlined the importance of the meeting in facilitating the exchange between business people and promoting new opportunities in the field of trade relations.

We will have the opportunity to exchange with business people of the world, in an atmosphere of optimism, in favor of the development of the economy of Cuba and other nations, added Malmierca at the opening of FIHAV 2019. He also acknowledged the efforts of Cuba and other nations to celebrate the fair in spite of current limitations.

“It fills us with satisfaction, because the will and decision to fight in spite of the blockade, which has intensified even more in recent times, always stand out,” added the foreign trade minister.

Malmierca added that the blockade is not only illegal and immoral, but it is also a failed policy, and he recalled that this week there will be a new vote against it at the UN General Assembly which will show the broad rejection of the international community.
