

U.S. students launch 5-day hunger strike to demand fossil fuel divestment

New York, November 19 (RHC)-- In New York City, four students at Columbia University with the global nonviolent action movement Extinction Rebellion have launched a five-day hunger strike.

The students are demanding Columbia declare a climate emergency and pursue a community-led process to divest from fossil fuels.

Over 400 people in 30 countries are participating in similar hunger strikes with Extinction Rebellion across the globe.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/207894-us-students-launch-5-day-hunger-strike-to-demand-fossil-fuel-divestment>

Radio Habana Cuba