

U.S. university students protest after school secretly gave $2.5 million to neo-Confederate group

Raleigh, December 8 (RHC)-- In the United States, the University of North Carolina is facing student and faculty protests after the school secretly agreed to provide $2.5 million to a neo-confederate organization to preserve and display a confederate statue known as Silent Sam.

Last year, anti-racist protesters toppled the statue, which had stood on the UNC Chapel Hill campus for over a century. Critics are accusing the school of helping to subsidize white nationalists.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/209295-us-university-students-protest-after-school-secretly-gave-25-million-to-neo-confederate-group>

Radio Habana Cuba