

Evo Morales denounces privatization plans by Bolivian coup government

Buenos Aires, December 13 (RHC)-- Former Bolivian president Evo Morales has denounced the intentions of the coup government led by Jeanine Añez to privatize the country's enterprises and resources.

"Añez, Camacho, and Mesa's de facto government intends to return to the past. They are talking about privatizing and handing over our strategic enterprises to transnational companies. They are preparing the IMF's comeback. The Bolivian people along with the #ProcessOfChange fought to recover our natural resources," he wrote on Twitter.

Evo Morales, in Argentina since Thursday where his refugee status is being processed, spoke about the intentions of the de facto government to privatize the state-run enterprises whose results are questionable.

On Thursday, during a press conference on Añez's economic policy, Minister of Productive Development and the Plural Economy of Bolivia Wilfredo Rojo stated: "The currently state-run companies showing signs of inefficiency must be negotiated and run by private firms."

Bolivian media are reporting that, during the Evo Morales administration, 17 companies were created, which generated profits for the State's treasury.
