

Medical professionals stage die-in protest over homelessness in San Francisco

San Francisco, May 2 (RHC)-- In California, medical students and doctors with the UC San Francisco Do No Harm Coalition staged a die-in outside of the home of San Francisco Mayor London Breed to protest her refusal to swiftly move unhoused people into hotel rooms.

The die-in lasted 30 minutes to symbolize 30,000 vacant hotel rooms in the city that could be used to house the homeless during the pandemic. The protesters also held a moment of silence for three unhoused people in San Francisco who have died of COVID-19.
