

Factory canceled Donald Trump visit over concern for worker health

Washington, May 13 (RHC)-- The Washington Post reports a planned visit to a Pennsylvania factory producing personal protective equipment was scuttled last week after officials at the Braskem factory expressed concerns for the health of its workers. Trump has refused to wear a face mask when out in public.

Last week, he toured a Honeywell plant in Arizona without a mask, ignoring a sign ordering everyone inside to wear a facial covering.

On Monday, the White House ordered all West Wing employees to wear masks unless at their desks, although the requirement does not extend to Trump or to Vice President Mike Pence.
