Beirut airport reopens to overseas flights

Beirut, July 2 (RHC)-- Lebanon's only international airport has reopened following a more than three-month shutdown as part of the country's lockdown to prevent the spread of the coronavirus.

The airport will operate at 10 percent capacity at first, bringing in around 2,000 travelers a day.

The first flight to arrive was Emirates from Dubai. Others scheduled on Wednesday are from Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Kuwait, London and Paris.

https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/227428-beirut-airport-reopens-to-overseas-flights

Radio Habana Cuba