

Argentinean ex-president Menem back in hospital with breathing difficulties

Buenos Aires, July 4 (RHC)-- Former Argentinean president Carlos Menem was admitted to hospital again suffering from breathing difficulties, family sources told the local press.

It has only been three days since Menem, who was president from 1989 to 1999, was discharged after two weeks in hospital receiving treatment for severe pneumonia.

He was tested for coronavirus, but the results came back negative.
