

Belgium toughens anti-virus rules as outbreak grows

Brussels, July 28 (RHC)-- Belgian Prime Minister Sophie Wilmes has announced new measures to try to curb the coronavirus as the country grapples with a "worrying" upsurge in cases.

From Wednesday, Belgians will be allowed to see a maximum of five people outside of their families, reducing the permitted "social bubble" from 15, and working from home will be "strongly recommended" by the government.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/229932-belgium-toughens-anti-virus-rules-as-outbreak-grows>

Radio Habana Cuba