

U.S. speeds deportations to Haiti, risking coronavirus spread

U.S. speeds deportations to Haiti, risking coronavirus spread. (Photo: AP)

Washington, October 31 (RHC)-- The Guardian reports the Trump administration has significantly increased deportations to Haiti in the weeks before the presidential election, triggering concerns for the safety of asylum seekers and the possible spread of the coronavirus to Haiti.

The watchdog group Witness at the Border has recorded at least 12 deportation flights to Haiti this month.

This comes as immigrant advocates say Black asylum seekers are being disproportionately targeted. Earlier this month, 60 Cameroonians and over two dozen Congolese asylum seekers were deported en masse, many alleging ICE agents tortured them to force them to sign removal papers.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/238398-us-speeds-deportations-to-haiti-risking-coronavirus-spread>

Radio Habana Cuba