

Dr. Fauci warns of possible fourth COVID surge

Washington, March 11 (RHC)-- In the United States, daily coronavirus infections are down from January's record highs but have plateaued at levels comparable to last summer's peak.

In the U.S. state of Arkansas, Republican Governor Asa Hutchinson is planning to end a statewide mask mandate by the end of the month. California officials are preparing to reopen baseball stadiums and amusement parks, including Disneyland, on April 1st.

In New York City, movie theaters have reopened for the first time in nearly a year — albeit with masks required and lower occupancy.

Earlier, White House medical adviser Dr. Anthony Fauci warned the U.S. risks a fourth surge in cases -- fueled by the spread of troublesome coronavirus variants -- if public health measures are rolled back too quickly.
