

Wealthiest one percent of Americans account for one-third of unpaid taxes

Washington, March 30 (RHC)-- A new report finds the wealthiest Americans are hiding 20% of their earnings from the Internal Revenue Service, the IRS. The National Bureau of Economic Research report also found the wealthiest 1% of U.S. residents account for about one-third of all unpaid U.S. taxes.

Last week, Vermont independent Senator Bernie Sanders unveiled legislation that would restore the U.S. corporate tax rate to 35%, levy new taxes on the estates of extremely wealthy people and prohibit companies from shifting profits offshore to avoid U.S. taxes.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/252402-wealthiest-one-percent-of-americans-account-for-one-third-of-unpaid-taxes>

Radio Habana Cuba