

Venezuelan president denounces U.S. financing of Juan Guaidó

Caracas, April 26 (RHC)-- Venezuelan President Nicolás Maduro has denounced that the money frozen and sequestered to his country in the banks of the world and the federal reserves of the United States are being delivered to the "mafias" of the opposition right wing.

The Venezuelan president made reference to information provided this week by an anonymous source that stated that "more than 150 billion dollars of Venezuelans' money" would be delivered to opposition forces in the Latin American nation.

"More than $150,000,000,000 for them to distribute among themselves. The U.S. empire has no limits in handing over the resources of Venezuelans to these mafias," stated Nicolas Maduro. According to the Venezuelan head of state, this money would be used to finance the political, psychological and media war against Venezuela.

The Venezuelan president offered these statements in the framework of the governmental balance of containment and prevention of the COVID-19, at a news conference in Caracas.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/255334-venezuelan-president-denounces-us-financing-of-juan-guaido>

Radio Habana Cuba