

Penn student protesters disrupt football game to demand fossil fuel divestment

Image not found or type unknown

Image Credit: Instagram: @fossilfreepenn

Philadelphia, October 24 (RHC)-- In the U.S. city of Philadelphia, at least 19 University of Pennsylvania students were arrested after they stormed a football field and disrupted the school's homecoming game to demand UPenn divest from fossil fuels.

The group Fossil Free Penn is also urging the university to pay property taxes to support the funding of city public schools, and help save a low income housing complex located near the university.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/302845-penn-student-protesters-disrupt-football-game-to-demand-fossil-fuel-divestment>

Radio Habana Cuba