Later, said a report from the organizing party, the DTI held a meeting with personnel from the Infrastructure and Sports areas of COSSAN2023 in which Cuban advisor René Romero participated.

"What we have agreed is to move everything that is weightlifting to the area of the Cradle of the National Stadium Jorge "Magico" Gonzalez, construction that is advancing rapidly and that according to projections will be ready on June 5," said the Peruvian.

"Everything indicates that on June 5 we can already have the physical recognition of the facilities for the games, we had the visit of the DTI this day and we moved to the Cradle of the "Magico". The Adolfo Pineda Gymnasium was left as an alternative for training", said Raquel Artiga, manager of the local Weightlifting Federation.

World class athletes are expected to attend the games, including medalists in international events from Colombia, Venezuela, Dominican Republic and Mexico, among others.
