Russian customs service plans to open offices in Cuba

Havana, Oct 30 (RHC) The Russian Federal Customs Service plans to open a representative office in Cuba to attend to Russia's interests in the Caribbean nation.

During the International Customs Forum, Ruslán Davidov, acting head of the department, explained to the TASS news agency that his country intends for the office to also serve Nicaragua and Venezuela, as well as inaugurate a representation of the Federal Customs Service in Iran.

Earlier, Davidov announced the opening of a customs office in Egypt, which will deal with relevant issues in the north of the African continent. (Source: Prensa Latina)
