

Lille challenge leaders PSG with Mbappé's start in doubt

Havana, February 10 (PL) -- The leader Paris Saint-Germain (PSG) will receive today the fourth in the table Lille in the continuation of the 21st round of French soccer, a match in which the star striker Kylian Mbappé could start on the bench.

The interesting duel will take place at the Parc des Princes, the first meeting between the two in the 2023-2024 Ligue1 season ended in a 1-1 draw.

The home side will go into the match on top with 47 points, just four days before the first leg -also at home- of the Champions League round of 16 against Real Sociedad.

Lille, meanwhile, have 35 points and are close to the podium, completed by Nice (39) and Brest (36).

The day before, PSG coach Luis Enrique confirmed the presence in his squad of superstar Mbappé, Ligue 1's leading scorer with 20 goals, who suffered a heavy tackle in the round of 16 of the Coupe de France against Brest on Wednesday.

In the other Saturday match on matchday 21, Lens, sixth in the table with 32 points, will be looking to move closer to the podium with a win at its Bollaert-Delelis stadium over lowly Montpellier (19), a club that has failed to win in its last four away outings (two defeats and two draws).
