Khan Younis, March 20 (RHC)-- Israeli military actions have forced Gazans to flee under fire of a renewed genocidal campaign.

On Wednesday, Israeli planes dropped leaflets over Beitt Lahia and Beit Hanoun in northern Gaza and parts of Khan Younis in the south, ordering residents once again to leave their homes. The order affects thousands of people who'd previously been expelled multiple times by Israel's army.

One Gazan who spoke with reporters, Jalal Dabbour, said: "We were feeling safe. We couldn't believe we had just started having stability in our lives. And suddenly the situation has been turned around under the threat of the Israeli aggression. They forced us to leave Beit Hanoun. I swear to God, we don't have any shelter except in Beit Hanoun. We had just started having some stability in the 40 days of ceasefire."
