Tottenham Won the Europa League

Tottenham: Champions of the Europa League

Spain, May 21 (PL) Today, Tottenham Hotspur defeated Manchester United one goal to nil to win the Europa League soccer title.

At the San Mamés stadium in Bilbao, Brennan Johnson unleashed a shot on goal in the 42nd minute that ricocheted off defender Luke Shaw to give Spurs the lead with an own goal, and from then on, the scoreboard did not move again.

For the Londoners, it was their first European title since 1984, although they missed out on the Champions League in 2019.

In addition to the title, the winner also had at stake the possibility of obtaining a direct ticket to next year's Champions League, as both teams were badly placed in the English League.

Tottenham will also play the European Super Cup at the start of next season against the Champions League champion, which will be contested on May 31 by Paris Saint-Germain of France and Inter Milan of Italy.
