

New York City police violently arrest protesters at rally to defend immigrants detained at courthouse

Seema Jilani

Image Credit: Seema Jilani

New York, May 30 (RHC)-- In New York City, masked federal agents arrested multiple people who showed up for appointments at immigration courts in downtown Manhattan, including a family with small children.

Police officers arrested protesters and observers who showed up to offer support and assistance, including a pastor.

Community members also blocked vans carrying immigrants from driving down the street, before police officers pepper-sprayed, violently tackled and dragged them away.

The Trump administration has reportedly ordered ICE to make 3,000 arrests per day.

[SOURCE: DEMOCRACY NOW]

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/383810-new-york-city-police-violently-arrest-protesters-at-rally-to-defend-immigrants-detained-at-courthouse>

Radio Habana Cuba