

New York Times reports Trump is weighing use of U.S. bomb on Iranian nuclear facility

New York, June 17 (RHC)-- The U.S. president is deliberating whether to enter the conflict with Iran to bomb its nuclear enrichment facility at Fordo, according to The New York Times.

The facility can only be reached using the U.S.'s biggest "bunker buster" bomb, the Massive Ordnance Penetrator, using American B-2 bombers, according to The Times.

"If he decides to go ahead, the United States will become a direct participant in a new conflict in the Middle East, taking on Iran in exactly the kind of war Mr. Trump has sworn, in two campaigns, he would avoid," reporters David E Sanger and Jonathan Swan write.

Notably, the piece is tagged under "analysis" instead of news, and does not cite a source or sources for its contention that such a strike is under consideration.
