London, July 25 (RHC)-- News has emerged that the Tony Blair Institute has been involved in planning a post Palestinian Gaza, which would be marketed as a utopia on the sea. The organization has helped draw up a map of how the strip would look, including a spot named after Elon Musk and the Trump Riviera.

Rather than an abbreviation of his behavior, this is a continuation of his work over decades in war profiteering and directly serving Zionist aims.

This edition exposes the role of former British PM, Blair, and his institute in a grotesque plan to turn Gaza into what Trump described as the Riviera of the ME.

The Tony Blair Institute has, over the last few years, received at least 200 million pounds from tech billionaire Larry Ellison.

Ellison is a very close friend of Benjamin Netanyahu and even offered the Israeli prime minister a place on the board of directors of his own data firm, Oracle, which processes the data of many UK government institutions. Ellison is also the largest funder of the Israeli military in history. He's a trusted friend of Elon Musk and lent him $1 billion with which Musk obtained social media company Twitter.

Blair, together with Netanyahu, is currently a patron of the JNF, the largest settlement building organization in Palestine, while at the same time he is a peace envoy to Palestine. Blair is also a special advisor for global affairs at Israel lobby group and spy network, the ADL.

His wife, Cherie Blair, was also ethics advisor to the Israeli intelligence firm, NSO group, which crafted the Pegasus spyware.

Tony Blair has a long history of war profiteering in West Asia. After resigning as prime minister, Blair was employed as an advisor to the Korean oil company UI Energy Corporation. During the same period, UI Energy Corporation acquired three Iraqi oil fields.

Blair was paid around 1 million pounds a year as an international advisor to an organization called the Mubadala development fund in the UAE. It was then reported that Mubadala developed a plan to mine $1 trillion worth of resources in Afghanistan.

The Chilcot report also showed that Blair lobbied George Bush on behalf of Siemens for access to power supply contracts in occupied Iraq just three months after the illegal invasion.

Blair is a mercenary for hire, and he's working for Israel. "Tony Blair is a very well-appreciated figure in Israel", said former Israeli foreign minister Tzipi Livni.

It's a little known fact that Israel lobbyists were also key to Blair's election as the leader of the Labour Party, and eventually his election as UK prime minister, through his close relationship with Michael Levy, known as Lord Cashpoint.

Simultaneous to fundraising for Blair, Levy also worked as a fundraiser for former Israeli prime minister, Ehud Barak, and had a son, Daniel Levy, working for Israeli justice minister, Yossi Beilin.

Blair was first introduced to Lord Levy by Israeli embassy officer Gideon Meir while Blair was shadow Home Secretary. Levy subsequently set about raising funds for Blair, obtaining them from key Israel lobbyists like Trevor Chen, who funds Starmer and Lamy now, Emmanuel Kaye, Labour Friends of Israel, and Chairman of Westfield Corporation, Frank Lowy, who fought in the ethnic cleansing Haganah during the Nakba of 1948.

Former British prime minister Tony Blair's organization reportedly continued a multi-million-pound partnership with Saudi Arabia despite the killing of Jamal Khashoggi.

Israel lobbyist Lord levy also obtained a 1 million pound donation to labor from Formula One boss Bernie Ecclestone, which had to be returned to avoid allegations of cash for favors.

When in government, Blair strong armed Michael Levy into a position of influence at the Foreign Office as an unofficial envoy to West Asia. Later on, once prime minister and knee deep in service to the Zionist lobby, Blair delivered a speech at the annual Labour Friends of Israel reception in September 2006.

"I have never actually found it hard to be a friend of Israel . I am proud to be a friend of Israel," said Blair, now a long time reliable asset.
