

U.S. Judge Blocks Obama's Executive Actions on Immigration

Dallas, February 17 (RHC)-- A U.S. federal judge in Texas has blocked President Barack Obama's executive actions on immigration. In November, Obama outlined programs aimed at providing relief from deportation to as many as five million people.

But Texas and 25 other states sued to oppose the measures. Two days before the first of the programs was due to start taking applications, Judge Andrew Hanen has now blocked them in the state of Texas.
