

Report Says CIA Researchers Claim Spying Backdoor into Apple Products

Washington, March 10 (RHC)-- As Apple unveiled its new "Apple Watch" to great fanfare, a report by The Intercept finds CIA researchers have been working for nearly a decade to crack the security of Apple's iPhones and iPads.

Documents from Edward Snowden show the researchers claim to have created a modified version of Apple's software development tool Xcode, allowing them to sneak surveillance backdoors into apps and programs.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/48951-report-says-cia-researchers-claim-spying-backdoor-into-apple-products>

Radio Habana Cuba