

Iraqi Forces Clash with Islamic State Militants, Car Bomb Hits Baghdad

BAGHDAD, March 23 (Xinhua) -- Iraqi security forces on Monday continued clashes with the Islamic State (IS) militants in the country's western provinces of Anbar, while a car bomb struck the Iraqi capital of Baghdad, security sources said.

In Anbar province, security forces, backed by allied Shiite and Sunni militias and covered with Iraqi and U.S.-led aircraft, carried out an offensive against the IS positions in northwest of the militant-seized city of Fallujah, some 50 km west of Baghdad.

During the battles in northwest of Fallujah, a suicide bomber blew up an explosive-laden vehicle among the security forces, leaving four security members killed and four others wounded.
