

Paris Limits Car Use to Fight Pollution

Paris, March 23 (Xinhua-RHC) -- Paris began on Monday to restrict car use as a measure to fight surging air pollution, with police checking car plate numbers on the streets.

Only cars with an uneven number, electric or hybrid vehicles and vehicles with more than three people on board are allowed to drive on Monday, while public transport is free for the entire day.

Anyone who refuses to obey the restrictions faces a fine of 22 euros (23.93 U.S. dollars).

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/50218-paris-limits-car-use-to-fight-pollution>

Radio Habana Cuba