

Iran Rejects Access to Military Sites Under Any Deal

Tehran, April 11 (RHC-Xinhua) -- Iran would never allow a potential nuclear deal with the world powers to monitor its military and missile capabilities, Iranian senior nuclear negotiator told Tasnim news agency on Saturday.

Iran "absolutely rejects" any foreign access to its military facilities under the pretext of addressing the so-called "possible military dimensions" of Tehran's nuclear program, Abbas Araqchi said.

However, U.S. Defense Secretary Ashton Carter said Thursday that the inspection of Iran's military facilities would be part of any final nuclear agreement between Tehran and the six world powers.

Iran and six world powers reached a framework accord last week on parameters of Iran's nuclear program, with a view to sealing a final comprehensive accord by the end of June.
