

Former Black Site Prisoners Sue Architects of CIA Torture Program

New York, October 14 (RHC)-- Two former CIA prisoners who say they were tortured at a black site in Afghanistan have filed a lawsuit against the architects of the CIA's torture program, James Mitchell and Bruce Jessen.

The lawsuit was also joined by the family of a third prisoner who froze to death at the black site. Mitchell and Jessen were psychologists who reaped more than $80 million presiding over untested torture techniques, including waterboarding. The lawsuit accuses them of war crimes.
