

Second Flight of Cayman Islands Airlines to Cuba to Begin in Late November

Havana, October 20 (RHC)-- A second flight connecting Cuba to Georgetown, capital of the Cayman Islands, with the city of Holguin, will join the route of Cayman Airways starting November 28th.

Prensa Latina news agency has reported that direct travel will be on Saturdays with a round trip flight on the same day and will include international connections from Owen Roberts Airport.

A press release states that this initiative seeks to cover the increasing demand of passengers between the two countries and offer greater opportunities for Canadians and Europeans who visit the Cayman Islands.

The note adds that according to the airline, Holguin was chosen because it is Cuba's fourth largest city and it is located near Santiago and Camaguey, another two cities of great cultural and tourist attraction.
