

Cuba and Russia Sign Package of Collaboration Accords

Moscow, October 23 (RHC)-- Cuba and Russia have signed six bilateral cooperation accords in energy, finances, the metal and pharmaceutical sectors aiming to strengthening bilateral relations in all areas.

The accords included the granting to Cuba of an export credit to finance the modernization of a metal-processing plant in Havana -- a loan to fund the construction of four power units and other accords in the energy sector and also in the biotechnology area.

The agreements were signed in the presence of Cuban Vice President Ricardo Cabrisas, who wrapped up working visit to Russia on Friday.
