

Egyptian Court Postpones Mubarak Trial Over 2011 Killing of Protesters

Cairo, November 6 (RHC)-- Egypt's top court has postponed the final trial of former Egyptian president Hosni Mubarak over the killing of protesters during the 2011 uprising against his rule.

Hosni Mubarak was originally sentenced to life in prison for conspiring to murder demonstrators, but a retrial was ordered on appeal. The court has adjourned the re-trial until January 21st next year.
