

Official Death Toll in Paris Terrorist Attacks Stands at 129

Paris, November 16 (RHC)-- France has entered a third day of mourning after 129 people were killed in Paris in a series of suicide bombings and shootings. It was the deadliest attack on French soil since World War II. Hundreds were wounded in the attacks on Friday, 99 are in critical condition.

In a series of coordinated attacks Friday evening, gunmen and bombers targeted restaurants, the national soccer stadium and the Bataclan concert hall, where at least 89 people were killed. Authorities have blamed the attacks on the self-proclaimed Islamic State.
