

Report Says Hillary Clinton E-mails Contained Info Beyond Top Secret

Washington, January 22 (RHC)-- A review of the private home e-mail server used by Hillary Clinton while she was secretary of state shows the server contained information classified at higher levels than previously reported.

Officials reviewing the e-mails found information deemed to be "top secret/SAP," which stands for "Special Access Programs," a level of classification beyond "top secret."

Hillary Clinton has previously said none of the e-mails she sent or received were marked classified at the time.

In other news, Clinton's Democratic presidential rival, Vermont Senator Bernie Sanders, has increased his lead over her in New Hampshire. Just weeks before the primary, Sanders leads Clinton by 27 points -- 60 percent to 33 percent.
