

Protests in Australia Over Asylum Seekers' Relocation

Melbourne, February 15 (RHC)-- In Australia, two women hung from a bridge and unfurled a giant banner over a Melbourne freeway reading "Let Them Stay," as a protest against the government's plans to relocate 267 asylum seekers from Australia to detention camps on Nauru.

The group of asylum seekers who may be relocated include 37 babies who were born in Australia, as well as 54 children, the majority of whom are now attending Australian schools.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/84212-protests-in-australia-over-asylum-seekers-relocation>

Radio Habana Cuba