

French Judge Says Evictions at Calais Refugee Camp Can Move Forward

Paris, February 26 (RHC)-- In Calais, France, in the largest camp in the country, refugees say officials began telling people to move out this morning, after a judge ruled Thursday that French authorities can move forward in evicting as many as 3,000 refugees.

French authorities want the refugees to move into shipping containers or to be dispersed to refugee centers across France.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/en/noticias/internacionales/85477-french-judge-says-evictions-at-calais-refugee-camp-can-move-forward>

Radio Habana Cuba