

Venezuelan Ombudsman Deplores the Right Wing Amnesty Law

Caracas, Apr 6 (RHC) Venezuela Ombudsman Tarek William Saab, said the Amnesty Law passed by the opposition-controlled National Assembly is an instrument giving violence strength as a political tool that denies the rights of victims.

Saab presented at the National Assembly the report Memoria y Cuenta of 2015 (Memory and Accountability 2015), which calls the recently approved law a mechanism of impunity aimed at blocking the legal process currently underway and for crimes to be forgotten.

Tarek William Saab regretted that promoting that Law means rejecting and preventing justice for the victims.
