

U.S. judge orders all children transferred out of Texas detention center over abuse claims

Washington, August 1 (RHC)-- U.S. Federal Judge Dolly Gee has ordered the Trump administration to transfer all children out of the Shiloh Residential Treatment Center in Manvel, Texas, due to allegations of widespread abuse in the immigrant detention center.

Judge Gee condemned the detention center for injecting children with psychotropic drugs without their parents' consent, imprisoning some children in overly-restrictive confinement and prohibiting the children from making private phone calls.

She also explicitly ordered that the detention center must obtain permission from a legal guardian before giving any psychotropic drugs to detained children.
