

Vietnam's most critical patient leaves hospital

Hanoi, July 12 (RHC)-- A British pilot, known as "Patient 91" -- who was Vietnam's most critical COVID-19 patient -- was discharged from hospital after being declared virus free.

Accompanied by a group of doctors, the Scottish man left Cho Ray Hospital for Ho Chi Minh City airport, where he is set to fly back to Britain via Hanoi and Frankfurt.

"I'm overwhelmed by the generosity of the Vietnamese people, the dedication and professionalism of the doctors and nurses," the man said in a video released by the hospital where he was last treated.
