New York, March 30 (RHC)-- Ghislaine Maxwell -- the British socialite who is accused of luring girls to be sexually abused by convicted predator and sex trafficker Jeffrey Epstein -- has been indicted on two more sex trafficking charges, including trafficking a minor.

The indictment says Maxwell met the girl, who was about 14 at the time, at Epstein's Florida home around 2001, and that the girl had been "recruited to provide Epstein with sexualized massages."

The indictment also extends the timeframe Maxwell collaborated with Epstein by several years, starting in 1994 to 2004.
