

NSA whistleblower Reality Winner released from prison

Image not found or type unknown

New York, June 16 (RHC)-- Former U.S. National Security Agency contractor Reality Winner has been released from prison into a halfway house, where she'll serve the remaining six months of her sentence.

New York, June 16 (RHC)-- Former U.S. National Security Agency contractor Reality Winner has been released from prison into a halfway house, where she'll serve the remaining six months of her sentence.

Winner was arrested in 2017 and sentenced to five years in prison under the Espionage Act for leaking classified government information about Russian interference in the 2016 election. Prosecutors say Winner received the longest sentence ever given by a federal court for unauthorized disclosure of government information to the press.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/260916-nsa-whistleblower-reality-winner-released-from-prison>

Radio Habana Cuba