

Harvard student workers strike to demand better pay and healthcare

Image not found or type unknown

Harvard student workers strike to demand better pay and healthcare

Cambridge, October 29 (RHC)-- In the U.S. state of Massachusetts, students at Harvard University have launched a three-day strike after talks between their union and Harvard administrators failed to produce a contract.

Members of the Harvard Graduate Students Union are demanding affordable healthcare, raises that match rising rents in Cambridge, and third-party arbitration for discrimination and sexual harassment claims.

Harvard is the world's richest university. Since the start of the pandemic, its endowment has grown to over $53 billion.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/internacionales/275479-harvard-student-workers-strike-to-demand-better-pay-and-healthcare>

Radio Habana Cuba