

Scientific Conference at the International Cuban Sports Fair

Image not found or type unknown

Havana, August 3 (PL) - The First International Cuban Sports Fair will have its most scientific day today, with the presentation of several conferences in the multifunctional hall of the Coliseum of the Sports City, venue of the event.

Among them, Henry Eduardo Reimberg, president of the Pan American Confederation of this young sport, which will be on display at the upcoming Pan American Games in Chile, will give a lecture entitled "Tegball: the sport of the future".

Likewise, a panel from the Cuban Sports Research Center (CIDC) will be in charge of a lecture on Sports Intelligence Systems applied to sports, which will also make a presentation on Technologies for biomedical control in sports.

For its part, the Cuban Aviation Club will present its business opportunities and the Commercial Department of Cuba's Sports Assurance Budget Unit will speak on Commercialization of goods and services for the design and assembly of sports and non-sports events.

The Fair was inaugurated on Monday at the Sports City of this capital city, and products and services from 123 companies from 13 countries will be on display until next Sunday.

<https://www.radiohc.cu/index.php/en/noticias/deportes/330293-scientific-conference-at-the-international-cuban-sports-fair>

Radio Habana Cuba